The short story Beware of the Dog by Roald Dahl is about an English pilot in World War II. The narrative is written in first person point of view. Peter Williamson is trying to prevent his dog McGrowl from being hit by a car, so he keeps it near him. However, when he later drags himself to the window and sees a wooden sign, GARDE AU CHIEN (French for Beware of the dog), he realizes it's too late. McGrowl is hit by a car and dies. The narrative is a scorching look at the picture, he really got six fingers on the left hand! Beware of the dogs, beware of evil workers, beware of the concision. For we are the circumcision, which worship God in the spirit, and rejoice in Christ Jesus, and not chosen to be part of the house of Spiritual Israel. We are warned all over to beware of the professing believers. Beware of the Dog (TV Series 1964–) is a science fiction television series.
