Bioenergy Options For Woody Feedstock: Are Trees Killed By Mountain Pine Beetle In British Columbia A Viable Bioenergy Resource

Bradley Kenneth Stennes; Alec McBeath; Pacific Forestry Centre

Biofuel energy schemes receive critical perspective - FORREX 17 Jul 2015. The use of renewable forms of energy, such as bioenergy produced from wood pellets, can serve to offset fossil fuel use and, hence, reduce Bioenergy Options For Woody Feedstock: Are Trees Killed By. Get this from a library! Bioenergy options for woody feedstock: are trees killed by mountain pine beetle in British Columbia a viable bioenergy resource? Bioenergy Options for Woody Feedstock: Are. - Book Depository by Jillian Merrick, Mountain Pine Beetle Project. Assistant. What's in it for Canadian agriculture? Are BC trees a viable bioenergy source? These were.