Wander Minnesota: 'Modern Spirit: The Art of George Morrison'. George Morrison was inspired by nature. Encouraged by his Chippewa heritage and their philosophy, Morrison believed nature to possess a magical and spiritual quality. This belief is reflected in his art, which often features landscapes, nature, and the human relationship with it. Morrison was known for his innovative approach to his work, which combined traditional Chippewa stories and symbols with modern techniques.

George Morrison was a key figure in the development of Native American modernism. His work was characterized by a deep connection to his cultural heritage and the natural world. He was a significant figure in the art world, and his influence can be seen in the work of many contemporary artists.

Morrison's art career took him all around the world, and his work is represented in both public and private collections in every part of the country. His legacy is celebrated in touring exhibits, and his work continues to inspire new generations of artists.

George Morrison was born in Chippewa City, MN, near Grand Marais on the North Shore of Lake Superior. He died in 2000. His work is an important part of the history of American art, and his influence continues to be felt today.