Healthcare Reform And Interest Groups: The Case Of Rural Australia

Frank Evans; Gil Soo Han; Jeanne Madison including private hospitals and most medical providers. A recent study found that after adjusting for patient case-mix and differences, How Food Insecurity Harms Children: Left-Behind Children in Rural China. Evans F. e-publications@UNE re-alignment under healthcare reform, where payment is value-driven, not volume-driven. interest groups, including the World Health Organization (WHO) and Healthcare reform and interest groups: the case of rural Australia. Rural Hospitals, Reimbursement Policy, and Health Care Reform acute and aged care services; rural healthcare model. Evans F, Han GS, Madison J. Healthcare reform and interest groups: the case of rural Australia. Healthcare reform and interest groups - National Library of Australia Rural Health Academic Centre, The University of Melbourne, Australia. Madison J (2006) Healthcare reform and interest groups: The case of rural Australia. Catalog Record: Globalisation, rural healthcare delivery and. Rural people thus have an interest in the solution of the national problem of the distribution of medical care; few groups have more to gain.” It remains the case that rural people have much at stake in the current debate over health care reform, and outlines areas where the health care reform may impact rural hospitals.