Malta And Gozo

Peter McGregor Eadie

Malta and Gozo are two islands located in the Mediterranean Sea. Malta is the largest of the two and is known for its history, architecture, and culture. Gozo, on the other hand, is smaller and offers a more laid-back atmosphere with plenty of natural beauty. Both islands have a rich history, with Malta being known for its ancient ruins and Gozo for its prehistoric temples. Today, they are popular tourist destinations with a variety of activities to offer.

Malta is a city of contrasts, with its modern skyline and historic alleyways. The island is known for its beautiful churches and palaces, as well as its vibrant nightlife. Gozo, on the other hand, is more rural and offers a more relaxed atmosphere. The island is known for its beautiful beaches, hiking trails, and historic sites.

Many tourists choose to visit Malta and Gozo as a package holiday, with guided tours and transfers to and from the airport. There are also many independent travelers who come to explore the islands on their own. Whether you're looking for history, culture, or natural beauty, Malta and Gozo have something to offer.

In addition to the islands themselves, Malta and Gozo are also surrounded by a beautiful sea, making it a paradise for snorkelers, divers, and sailboat owners. The sea is clear and blue, and there are many places to enjoy a day in the sun. Whether you're looking for a relaxing week in the sun or an adventure-filled holiday, Malta and Gozo have something for everyone.