No Way Out: Story Of An X-street Kid

Zinhle Carol Mdakane; University of Durban-Westville
By contrast, roughly 0% of the Chinese mothers felt the same way. It’s also why no Chinese kid would ever dare say to their mother, I got a part in the school play! Here’s a story in favor of coercion, Chinese-style. There are all these new books out there portraying Asian mothers as scheming, callous.

Malcolm was the seventh of his father’s nine children — three by a previous marriage. In Boston, Malcolm found himself more attracted to the street life in the ghetto. Visited the prison and told Malcolm that he had a way to get him out of prison.
