Magdalena Tulibacka

Product Liability Law in Transition: A Central European Perspective, edited by Professor Jane Stapleton, examines the evolution of Central European product liability systems, with particular reference to the effect of the implementation of the Product Liability Directive. The volume includes contributions from leading experts in the field, providing a comprehensive overview of the development of product liability law in Central Europe.

The perspectives of the contributors include a wide range of issues, such as consumer protection, liability regimes, and the role of litigation in product liability. The volume also includes an analysis of the implementation of the Product Liability Directive and its impact on Central European product liability systems.

In conclusion, Product Liability Law in Transition: A Central European Perspective is a valuable resource for scholars, practitioners, and policymakers interested in the evolution of product liability law in Central Europe. It offers a comprehensive and detailed analysis of the key developments and challenges in the field, providing insights into the future direction of product liability law in the region.