Reconstructing Contexts: The Aims and Principles of Archaeo-historicism

Robert D. Hume

This book attempts to justify and theorize old historicism, defining archaeo-historicism as a method by which scholars can reconstruct past contexts in order to interpret works and events of that time. Hume offers the neologism archaeo-historicism (not to be confused with archaeology); it defines archaeo-historicism as a method by which scholars can reconstruct past contexts in order to interpret works and events of that time. Hume's aim is to provide a systematic methodology for reconstructing past contexts in order to use these contexts to interpret works and events of that time.
