Salvaged Pages: Young Writers' Diaries Of The Holocaust

Alexandra Zapruder

Salvaged pages: young writers' diaries of the Holocaust. Palos. This collection of diaries written by young people during the Holocaust reflects a vast and diverse range of experiences. Some of the writers were refugees, others were children of Holocaust victims. The volume begins with a discussion of Anne Frank's diary and offers a new framework for thinking about the Holocaust. This stirring collection of diaries written by young people during the Holocaust reflects a vast and diverse range of experiences — some of the writers were refugees, others were children of Holocaust victims. The collection is based on the book Salvaged Pages: Young Writers' Diaries of the Holocaust by Alexandra Zapruder, editor, and Moshe Flinker, publisher. Published by Yale University Press, the book features fourteen diaries of Jewish adolescents. From the youngest age of twelve to adolescence. The volume includes diaries written by young people who came of age in the poisoned World War II. The book is a valuable resource for students and educators studying the Holocaust.
