The distinction between Church and State is very much a Roman Catholic distinction. There was a rebellion by the Dublin Catholic middle class against this condition, sparked off by Walter Cox in his Irish Magazine. The origin of Irish Catholic-nationalism: selections from Walter Cox's Irish Magazine, 1807-1815.