The Rise Of An Environmental Superpower:
Evaluating Japanese Environmental Aid To Southeast Asia

Peter Dauvergne; Australian National University concerns in Japanese official development assistance. OECD-DAC has defined aid to the environment as aid which is: further evident as Japan's investment and trade relations with Southeast Asia were increase environmental ODA to 300 billion yen over three years through bilateral