Now I Become Myself The Girl Choir of South Florida - YouTube I've heard the statement “just be yourself” so much. It sounds like something to do, and I have wished many times that I could just do that. What I've been trying to do is become myself. The Girl Choir of South Florida performed this song in 2015, and I've been listening to it ever since. It's a powerful message about the importance of being true to oneself. The lyrics speak to the idea that we are all unique and have our own paths to follow. It's a reminder that we should focus on who we are, rather than trying to fit into someone else's mold. The Girl Choir's performance is both beautiful and uplifting, making it a must-listen for anyone who needs a reminder to just be themselves.

Pat Corrick Hinton