Vows that WOW! on Pinterest Wedding Vows, Vows and Blended. So you thought it'd be great to write your own wedding vows, but now a healthy dose of writer's block (not to mention fear of embarrassing yourself) has hit you. Writing Your Own Wedding Vows - Deadspin. Writing your own personalized wedding vows can be a daunting task, but it's not quite as hard as it looks. Here are six easy steps that you can follow to write your own wedding vows.

Step 1: Check with the Officiant. Make sure the person performing your ceremony is OK with you writing your own wedding vows. Some officiants may require you to personalize your wedding vows, but not all of them.

Step 2: Personalize Your Ceremony. The ceremony you choose can have a big impact on the tone of your vows. For example, a more traditional ceremony may require more formal and traditional language, while a more modern ceremony may allow for more creative and personalized language.

Step 3: Choose Your Words. Make sure your vows accurately reflect your feelings and beliefs. This can be a challenging task, but it's important to get it right.

Step 4: Write Your Vows. Take some time to write your vows. You may want to write them out by hand or type them on your computer.

Step 5: Practice Your Vows. It's important to practice your vows before the wedding day. This will help you feel more comfortable and secure on the big day.

Step 6: Deliver Your Vows. On the wedding day, deliver your vows with passion and emotion. Your guests will be touched by your words.

By following these six easy steps, you can write your own wedding vows that are truly personal and meaningful to you and your partner.
